

Mahyar Tousi

9 June 2024

Mahyar Tousi is a British-Iranian political commentator, filmmaker, and YouTuber known for his conservative viewpoints. He was born in Iran and later moved to the United Kingdom, where he was raised in London. Tousi gained prominence through his YouTube channel, where he shares his political commentary and opinions, covering a wide range of topics including British politics, international affairs, and cultural issues. He often expresses conservative viewpoints and critiques of left-wing politics and policies. Additionally, Tousi has been involved in filmmaking, creating documentaries and short films that explore various political and social issues. He is known for advocating for small government, free markets, and individual liberty, and has been vocal about his support for Brexit and criticism of what he perceives as the overreach of government regulation and political correctness. Through his online platforms, Tousi actively engages with his audience, encouraging political discourse and debate. He has become a prominent figure in the online conservative community in the UK and beyond, and continues to be an influential voice in the world of online political commentary, with a growing YouTube following.

Follow Mahyar at:

